

I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked man, says the Lord, but rather in his conversion, that he may live. (Ez. 33:11)

Our Lord is compassion and love, slow to anger and rich in mercy

His desire the return of man or woman to him always, no matter how much we stray. He is not interested in the death of any of his creatures

May these holy days draw us closer to him. May we find our way back to our father's house always.
